

Attention 5th-8th grade students!

Do you see yourself entering the field of Environmental Sciences? Do you have an interest in the health of the local water supply?

This camp is for you!

Watershed Education: Equipping the Next Generation of Stewards

Students will gain an understanding of how choices in the local watershed affect the health of the larger, regional watershed and the Chesapeake Bay. This camp will have an emphasis on daily field experiences during which students will be immersed in their local watershed through chemical testing, macro-invertebrate collection and environmental assessments.
